

NAT BRIGHAM.

The Popular Salt Laker who Helped to Carry Illinois.

As Head of the Literary Bureau He Sent Out Millions of Documents—Chieftain of the Wonderful Success.

The Democrats of Utah can extract considerable satisfaction from the part contributed by this territory to the glorious victory of Nov. 8th, notwithstanding they were unable to vote for Grover Cleveland and the national Democracy. One of Salt Lake's esteemed citizens took an active and prominent part in the effective work of the national committee, and chief among the honors, with his chief, Congressman Cable and his other lieutenants, of having won the most remarkable victory of the campaign—the carrying of Illinois for the Democracy.

Mr. Nat M. Brigham, who was one of the Cable's lieutenants in the western division of the Democratic campaign, reached home Thursday and was seen in his office last evening by a Herald reporter. When questioned about his own share in the campaign, Mr. Brigham stated that his position was a modest, although an active one. He was chairman of the literary bureau and had entire charge of the preparation and distribution of CAMPAIGN DOCUMENTS IN THE WEST. The committee sent out between four and five millions of documents, and by reason of the large number of foreign-born citizens, documents printed in Polish, Swedish, Scandinavian, German, French and Italian had to be prepared.

Regarding the victory in Illinois, which was such a surprise to everybody outside that state, and the work which led up to that result, Mr. Brigham had this to say: "The organization from beginning to end was Mr. Cable's. I was merely an agent there would have been no organization—save the state and Cook county organization. You can well understand that it required considerable political sagacity and considerable old-fashioned nerve for him to establish

HEADQUARTERS IN THE WEST, especially when Democrats, the country through, were not confident, and the ardor of the local Democracy was merely lukewarm. You must bear in mind that Mr. Cable is a very young man, and until the opening of the campaign was known only as one of the "Rock Island" boys, and a congressman from the district of Illinois. Two years ago in a strong Republican district he made the run for Congress. It was considered foolhardy, but a straight up and down business method made him a winner by some 2,000 votes. I am under the impression that while the eastern Democrats wished him to "spend," they really didn't dream that Illinois could be carried by $7,000 plurality. The position was a difficult one, and his perspicacity, his energy, his nerve, and his entire new to him. He was threatened with opposition from many quarters. The word went out from him that it must be an absolutely clean campaign, that the ticket must be supported from top to bottom, that "kickings" would not go, and so it happened. He was not only sure, but he gathered up all the lines of the state and county Democracy into his own hands and held them. He hunted out the weak spots in the state and got them into line. He was in person at the headquarters, 11,570 district school committees, and before the campaign was over he had sent out over one hundred thousand personal letters. He impressed upon the Democracy of Illinois the fact that the full Democratic vote had never been polled, and, further, that he proposed to see that the full vote was polled. He was a man of great pride of recognition at the hands of the national committee, responded to a man.

Personally, Mr. Cable is a most agreeable gentleman—quiet, dignified and very courteous in his manner of meeting men. He is, I believe, a graduate of Andover university, has traveled abroad much and is a man of broad and liberal views. His political organization was just such as any American could be proud of. It was all open and above board. The accounts could be published in the newspapers and every corner.

LEGISLATION ACCOUNTED FOR. In no way was the calibre of the man better shown than in the last work done at the headquarters, in sending out twenty thousand personal letters to the voters and helpers of the campaign, and it ran up into the thousands.

The Chicago Tribune of two weeks ago paid Mr. Cable the most pointed tribute of the season when it stated editorially: "wherever the Republican line Cable to be found."

I think it is Mr. Cable's intention to continue the organization which he has perfected.

Mr. Brigham said he was glad to be at home again, but regarding his candidacy for the marshaling or any other position he absolutely refused to be in any way interviewed.

Mr. Brigham will resume the management of his business interests in Salt Lake, which have been in the hands of his cousin during his absence.

SANITARY MATTERS—THE DRY EARTH SYSTEM. To the Editor of THE HERALD:

The Semi-Weekly Herald of the 2d instant contains an article on sanitary matters in which the dry earth system for out-houses outside of the sewer districts is highly recommended and the question of water in wells being contaminated that are near such out-houses is discussed.

When the dry earth system is properly adopted I don't think wells are apt to be near enough to such buildings for any evil effects to be feared. As the article alluded to makes mention of "a receptacle that can be moved away for emptying" and as this requires the services of a stout man or team and as all families outside of said districts do not have a stout man or team at their command, I thought I would send a more simple and practical method and one so easily manipulated that no excuse can be given for not adopting it if there is a boy on the premises large enough to handle a shovel.

DIRECTIONS. Have in the out-house a box of dry earth and a small scoop shovel. Behind the building there should be a quantity of dry earth on which the ash pan should be emptied. As often as it is found necessary, dig a hole in the large pile of earth and shovel in the same the contents of the out-house.

Place two stakes in the corners of the hole thus filled as a guide to dig the next day and repeat the process all over the earth mound. Afterwards the pile can be repeated with but little if any unpleasant smell, as the dry earth and ashes will soon cause all offensive matter to decompose and mix with the earth. The same earth can be used several years, without any particular necessity for changing it, and the quantity can be regulated or determined by the number of persons in the family; also, it is very important to have a roof over it extending from the out-house, to keep it dry.

There is no doubt a great deal of sickness and suffering caused by the almost universal out-house nuisance in every town and near nearly every residence in the country, and it is a sad commentary on our boasted high civilization that we so tamely submit to such a veritable self-inflicted punishment, and a territorial if not a national shame should immediately be enacted to save the young people and the old citizens who are innocent from being exposed to such unnecessary dangers. A great number of out-houses should have the following convenient remedy attached to them:

Tip the building or the door frame, or raising the door in such a manner that the door will swing open with its own weight.

During stormy weather if it is thought best to keep it closed, have a rope or string to fasten it open with, so arranged that it can be seen from the house, no latch should be on the door, only a button inside and the rope or string outside. Lastly cut this out and put it in an envelope, appropriately labeled for future reference. A good use to make of used envelopes is to place newspaper scraps in, labeled as above mentioned until you can spare time to arrange them in a scrap book. In doing this keep articles on the same subject in the same envelope. They can be more easily referred to when wanted if so assorted, and a number of envelopes can readily be kept handy for this purpose. It is almost unfortunate to attack so important a subject as this latter one to such an article as the above, but the two can be separated with the scissors and placed in appropriate envelopes by very modest scrap book manufacturers. C. T. FAIRBANKS, Dec. 5, 1892.

NOTES FROM PAYSON.

The schools here are crowded to overflowing and it seems that Payson has a corps of teachers that we can be proud of. D. H. Christensen is the efficient principal.

Last Wednesday night (Dec. 7) the happy occasion of the musical entertainment of the P. O. S. of A. hall. Brimhall's Elite orchestra furnished the music, which was one of the pleasing features of the party. The dancing was a success, and it is to be hoped. How down-hearted those misguided Republicans must feel over the sickening thought of their great fall!

CHOYNSKI COMING.

He Will Visit Salt Lake After All—Letter from the "Parson."

All arrangements have been made for the exhibition to be given by Peter Jackson at the People's Opera house next Wednesday night. Billy Woods of the Ogden Athletic club will appear four friendly rounds with the colored man.

It seems that Joe Choynski will be seen here after all. He comes two weeks later than was expected. The following letter received by Colonel Kelley yesterday explains the plans of Parson Davis.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8, 1892. FRIEND ED.—Yours of the 2d just received. I have just been explained about Choynski. He will follow about the week later and I can arrange with you about him when I see you. I have concluded not to take in Ogden this trip, so do not make any arrangements for an exhibition there. I leave here for New York tomorrow to see the old friends and shall leave Chicago for Salt Lake Saturday night. Yours truly, CHARLES E. DAVIS.

The Championship Shoot. OGDEN, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The championship shooting match between George L. Becker and A. P. Higelow of the Ogden Shot Gun club, will take place on Christmas day at the club grounds. Becker now holds the medal.

The Union Pacific a Winner. The Union Pacific won its first damage suit for many months in the fourth district court at Ogden Wednesday, non suit being granted by Judge Minor, after lengthy arguments, in the case of Oliver C. Myers vs. the Union Pacific railway company.

Myers claimed $30,000 damages for a broken thigh and other serious injuries, sustained while trying to check the speed of a runaway section of an Oregon Short Line freight train near King Hill, Idaho.
